British vs. Americans Kicks off!

The British vs. American series started with all of the campers rushing out to the flag to find the Union Jack had been raised instead of the usual stars and stripes. The campers were livid, and the flag was soon lowered and replaced with the traditional American flag. It was the fourth of July after all!

Soon after that calamity, all campers rushed into Wasserman Hall, where the British vs. American teams were to be decided. To make it fair, the lucky dip method was put in place, just to ensure there was no bias. Each cabin took their turns to choose a colored chip from the hat, and BRETT DAVIDSON alongside DYLAN DRISCOLL were chosen as captains for the American and British teams respectively. When it came to the junior division, RYDER SPECTOR was chosen as the captain of team America, whilst TYLER BORSTEIN lead the way for the UK.

The first match was an all-out water balloon collision, where the two captains from each division had to collide on the shuffleboard court holding water balloons. The victor would be the one least wet, and it led to some entertaining results along with a lot of fun. TYLER and RYDER were up first, but neither captain wanted to actually run into each other, so both threw their balloons in an attempt that it would make contact with the other. At the end of the round, TYLER came out on top, leading his British side to an early advantage. Next up, DANIEL MALIS faced off against LEVI PASIKOV. Despite a close match, DANIEL just managed to seal the deal, and the Americans were now level with the British. After all but one camper and counselor match-ups, it was time for the overall British and American captains to take the final match. BRETT and DYLAN took to the court to go head-to-head. The Americans were ahead at this stage, so it was up to DYLAN to set things straight. However, BRETT was just too agile and won the first round for his team. Even though the British had lost, they congratulated the winning team. Cheers followed the game, and it was a great way to start the fourth of July celebrations.

Squirt Gun Fun

Straight after the American victory at the shuffleboard courts, we all put on our white Menominee tees and headed to the golf course for an all camp squirt gun fight. The Americans huddled around The Way and talked tactics, with JOSH STONE and DANIEL DRISCOLL being assigned as 'kamikazes', facing the opposition head on. Meanwhile on the other side, the British marched on in packs, using distraction techniques to catch the USA out. NATE FRIEFIELD used his speed and agility to take out some valuable American counselors, and JUAN GIRAULT unluckily and unintentionally got out when he got green dye on his t-shirt. In the end, the Americans cruised to another, consecutive victory, making the series score to 2-0. The game was a lot of fun and it was great to see everyone getting involved!

Cabin 5's Canoe Adventure

Trip week! All the kids were as excited as we were. We all piled into KOZ's car for a short drive to chain lake. When we were there, we unloaded the canoes, grabbed our snacks and set off down the lake! The atmosphere surrounding us was amazing, and we had a great scenic canoe trip through the lakes. Just as expected, we had a few nature breaks along the way. We were all lucky enough to see some bald eagles and a few herons too.

When we arrived at Stone Lake, we stopped for a mid-canoe picnic! Although it didn't go too smoothly, as strong waves lead to MICAH SCHULMAN, LEVI PASIKOV and COLE NEUMAN being stuck in the long reeds. After rescuing the convoy, we were back on course. Disaster struck once again when ANDY PRATTENT had damaged his elbow, and couldn't continue with the rest of the trip. He had to be rescued from the journey and taken back to camp. He wasn't too happy as he had been really enjoying it.

The campers marched on with the trip, and TOM ADLER stepped in and helped us closer to Dam Lake. We all canoed at a 45 degree angle (KOZ's orders) and passed a dam. After four hours of paddling, we arrived at our beautiful campsite, which even got DANIEL MALIS' approval. On our arrival, we found KOZ ready and waiting to cook us some burgers. Thank you very much KOZ! After our delicious dinner, KOZ headed off and we started our own fire to keep warm. As everyone must know, what's a campfire without s'mores! We finished our s'mores just as the sun setted and the stars lit up the sky. A great end to a great day. Lucky canteen no. 13
