Second Session! By Editors

Yesterday marked the start of the second session, and the session has truly started off with a bang! At 9:30 a.m., visitors' weekend came to an end when all the parents left the Friendly Confines. An aura of excitement could be felt around camp as everyone began to anticipate the start of a great second session,. That start occurred around 3 p.m. on Sunday, when not one but two Lamers buses rolled up to the Canteen area filled with excited campers. It was great to see the guys from past years as well as the new first year campers. Once everyone ran through the tunnel created by the first session campers and staff who were already at camp, everyone filed into Wasserman Hall for a pep rally. Chants were started by the Senior Cabin and CM staff, with experienced campers joining in and new campers getting their first experiences with the spirit of camp. As campers and staff were assigned to their respective cabins, many of the guys became increasingly excited for the things to come in the future. It was a great way to begin the session and we look forward to the many great things that second session contains. Stay tuned for more coverage on the second session happenings.

MAX BEERMAN, XANDER SCHILLER, JACK KAPLAN, and ARI GOLDBERG happily reunite with a member of their camp age group ROBBY BRINGAS. Great friendships such as these make camp the place it is and keep campers coming back year after year.

ELI LUNDY rushes off the bus through the awaiting tunnel of CM campers and staff who were already at camp. It is a great experience to see both new and experienced campers run off the bus excitedly.

A Blast at the Waterfront By Drake Elman

The waterfront is a great place to have fun! With so many things to do like water skiing, being on a boat, and seeing the kayaks out in the amazing sun. Seeing the swimmers is also really fun! For instance, COLE ADAM's favorite parts of the waterfront are skiing and tubing because he likes to fall off of the tube. BRANDON PTASZNIK likes seeing the waterfront when it is busy. He also loves to teach skiers. So, the waterfront is a great place to have a blast!

Tomorrow's Weather Report:

Tomorrow in beautiful Eagle River, WI we are expecting a high of 82°F with a low of 56°F. There is a chance of scattered thunderstorms, but it is nothing that we can't handle here at CM.

Riddle of the Day:

Capture the Flag by Editors

As CM tradition has it, campers and counselors play a game of Capture the Flag in the Gulley on the first night of each camp session. Last night was no exception as the camp was divided into two teams, Dark and Light, and the CITs took charge to organize the game. Fun was had by all as campers and counselors organized rushes, defensive tactics, and overall strategies. JACK FORMAN frequented the flag circle along with a lot of the older campers, however younger campers such as NATE BEERMANN were also able to reach the flag safely at times. Even TJ got in on the action by organizing plays for the Dark team once they had reached the flag. When it came to the finish, the Light team were victorious as campers frequently tossed the flag over the line to tall counselors such as JONAH WEISS and LEON MENZIES. Once the first match was decided, the CITs decided to mix it up and pit the counselors against the campers! The campers had strength in numbers and seemed poised to win each game by reaching the flag first. However, it was the counselors that emerged as the winners. Capture the Flag was a great way to kick off the great programming of this session as the campers settle in for a great last four weeks!
